Arizona's Trout Challenge Program was developed to encourage anglers to learn more about fishing opportunities in the state. Arizona Game and Fish Department manages many waters statewide to provide anglers the opportunity to catch several different species of trout, including two found only in the Southwest, Gila and Apache trout.

Wild Trout Challenge The Arizona Wild Trout Challenge highlights unique fisheries in Arizona that offer anglers the chance to pursue wild trout. Many of these fisheries are managed by Arizona Game and Fish Department either through special regulations (ie. Catch-and-Release, Limited Harvest) or habitat improvement projects aimed at increasing natural reproduction in these populations. This Challenge also highlights the opportunity to fish for native Gila and Apache trout in Arizona. Both of these species are listed as threatened under the Endangered Species Act, but thanks to conservation efforts led by Arizona Game and Fish, are currently open to angling. As recovery efforts for each of these species progress, additional waters will be added to the list of locations where anglers can catch some of the rarest trout species in the world.

Arizona Trout Challenge The Arizona Trout Challenge was developed to get people out fishing across the state. Arizona Game and Fish Department manages approximately 100 waters, providing anglers opportunities to catch trout in nearly every region of the state. Currently, eight species of trout are stocked in Arizona including Gila, Apache, Brown, Brook, Rainbow, Grayling, Cutthroat, and Tiger trout. This Challenge highlights the breadth of the waters stocked in Arizona and the diversity of opportunities to catch unique trout species in the state.
